Victory Loan Collections Now Total $95,000

Now Compulsory To Have Ashes Removed By Ashman

Fee Raised to 35 Cents Monthly Water Analysis Report Shows Water Very Bad; M.H.O. Reports on Local Restaurants.

Regular meeting of the council was held on Monday evening. Present Mayor Antrobus, Councilors Aboussaffy, Ford, Jenkins and Ramsay.

Tony Lycka was present to talk on the indebtedness which he owes the town. A meeting was arranged to take place on Wednesday evening at the Mayor's office between himself, two sons and a committee headed by the mayor, and Town Solicitor Bannan.

Permission was received from provincial authorities to invest in the Fourth Victory Loan. A by-law was given its third reading authorizing a $1,000 purchase.

A letter was received from Joe Lombardi, who has purchased the Joe Malicky main street property, asking council to endorse his application for a trade license to start barbering. Letter was filed.

A report on the drinking water samples sent to Edmonton for analysis was received. The report was among the worst received. It started a lively debate among the councilors and resulted in a letter being sent to the Coleman Light and Water Company asking for an early conference between the company officials and the council.

A councillor reported on the reason why the drinking water was so muddy one day last week. He stated, in his opinion, the trouble was caused by the driver of the tractor who in widening the McGillivray company road had pushed the soil towards the creek causing it to slide into the water. A letter will be sent the McGillivray company that should it have similar work in the future near the creek they warn the driver regarding soil going into the creek.

J. Hedburg, seventh street, asked that a light be placed near his property. Light and Water committee will investigate.

Mrs. Agnes Despatik, relief recipient, asked and was granted shoes.

Dr. Liesemer, M.H.O., submitted his monthly report which revealed that since January to the present time there had been cases of whooping cough and scarlet fever. Due to lack of help in the past and which now has been corrected he would in the near future give council a report of the general health condition of the town.

Dr. Liesemer also reported on the sanitary conditions of the restaurants in town. Of the four reported on two received excellent reports on their cleanliness and two received bad reports. Council will take immediate steps to rectify those restaurants receiving the bad reports. Council was very pleased with the detailed report on all restaurants and a letter will be sent the doctor thanking him for the excellent report.

Sanitary Inspector Wm. Antle also reported on a number of cases requiring council's immediate attention. M. Ferrara has an outside toilet and a one room shack which council was asked to condemn. Mr. Antle was authorized to use his own judgment in this matter and he would secure the support of the council in any decision he arrived at. The residence in the basement of the Catholic hall was also brought to the attention of the council. There is no sink and the water is thrown outside causing a nuisance. A letter will be sent Father L. Sullivan asking that a sink be installed in the residence as soon as possible and have it attached to a cesspool. Fred Dzurek, in west Coleman, it was stated, had dug a toilet too near dwelling places. He will be ordered to move it at least twenty feet from a dwelling place.

Council endorsed a petition asking that the ban on the Canadian Communist party be lifted. The petition will be sent Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

A by-law making it compulsory for all residents within the incorporated area of Coleman to have their ashes removed at regular intervals by the ashman appointed by council was passed. The fee was raised an additional 5c making the monthly fee 35c.

A brief report was submitted on the cemeteries. It stated that the tractor has removed some boulders and that a one way road would be constructed around the union cemetery. A letter was authorized to be sent the Ponoka town council asking how that town dealt with their cemetery problem.

The hill at the east end of Fourth street will be inspected and work on its improvement started at a later date. The drainage system at the corner near the Johnston residence on Second street will be improved.

WM. COLE SPOKE ON VICTORY LOAN SATURDAY NIGHT

Why every citizen should buy bonds was ably demonstrated by Mr. Wm. Cole at the Palace theatre on Saturday evening before a capacity audience that became quite interested in the speaker's remarks.

In place of figures Mr. Cole had blocks of cardboard cut to represent units and money values. By this method he was able to simplify his demonstration to the point that all were able to understand his argument why it was necessary that all wage earners should buy bonds to the limit of their financial ability.

Since Mr. Cole only spoke at the first show on Saturday night many missed the opportunity of hearing him. His message must have been most inspiring as a number of subscriptions are credited by local loan officials to Mr. Cole's much appreciated address. The local officials' only regret is that the address could not have been heard by many more citizens.

MR. AND MRS. J. F. HADLEY LEAVE FOR CALGARY

77 Per Cent. of Quota Secured; Quota Can Be Reached With Support Of All

There has been a decided spurt in Victory Loan subscriptions during the third week of the campaign as against the first two weeks. On Wednesday evening collections totalled $95,000 or 77% of the local quota.

During the past few days collections have been averaging $10,000 daily and if that average is maintained during the last three days of the campaign the quota can be reached.

A number of people have bought second purchases, having re-considered their original decision to buy only a small bond. Many more are in a financial position to buy more bonds if they wished. To these persons a plea is directed to buy more bonds.

Canvassers are busy finishing off their territory. They still have to call at some homes two, three and four times, so if any persons wish to buy bonds they are asked to call at the bank or Victory Loan headquarters where their subscriptions will be accepted.

The local bank will remain open on Saturday, May 15, from 2 to 4 p.m. for the accommodation of subscribers to the Fourth Victory Loan.

The Merchant Navy

THE NAVY IS SOMETIMES called "The Silent Service," and this term describes well the great secrecy which surrounds all the operations of ships and sailors in time of war. It is generally known, however, that the British Navy has been from the beginning had a vital part in defending the Allied cause. In addition, the service which the Merchant Navy has rendered in transporting men and materials has been enormous. There is universal recognition of the gallant conduct of the men of this branch of the service since the beginning of the war, and we all know that but for them British and her allies would not be as successfully on the offensive as they are today. Some very interesting figures on the work of the Merchant Navy have recently been released in England, and they tell a part of the story of this phase of the war at sea.

Figures Show Gigantic Task

We are told that each year between twenty and thirty million tons of vital raw materials are brought to the factories of Britain by the ships of the Merchant Navy. In addition, the Merchant Navy has taken troops and equipment to every fighting front, and some figures are given to show the gigantic task which this represents. It is said that in 1942, one million tons of stores and one-half million men were sent around the Cape to various points. For the campaign in North Africa, the Merchant Navy transported over one million tons of stores and one-half million men before November 1942. Other interesting statistics reveal that there are about two thousand British Merchant ships at sea all the time, yet in spite of intense enemy attack by mines, U-boats and aircraft, only one-half of one per cent of all these convoys fail to reach their destinations. Loss of life is also kept at a remarkably low figure. We are told that eighty-seven out of every hundred men are saved from ships which are damaged or sunk, and the loss of life in rafts and life boats is less than two per cent.

War Materials Carried Safely

In addition to carrying men and supplies for the British armies, the Merchant Navy has taken large quantities of war materials to other countries in the Commonwealth, and to Britain's Allies overseas. Between June, 1941, and December, 1942, 2,974 tanks and 3,080 airplanes were among the supplies shipped from Britain to Russia, and in that period nineteen large British convoys travelled safely to Russia over the dangerous northern route alone. Seven hundred officers of the Merchant Navy have been made members of the Officers and Commanders of the Order of the British Empire and 2,551 officers and men have received honours and decorations for gallant conduct. Among these are two hundred foreign nationals who are serving with the British Merchant Navy. The valuable contribution of this branch of the service to the successful conduct of the war has been summed up by a British writer in the following words: "Without the Merchant Navy, Great Britain would have come perilously near to starvation, her armies could never have been supplied, nor could the products of her factories ever have reached her allies overseas."

HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA

TRAINING IN EATING

AS CHILDREN GROW out of babyhood they enter a very important period in their lives, the one in which they acquire both the social and personal habits necessary to adult civilized life. Among other things to be learned at this time is the habit of eating the proper foods.

AS EVERY MOTHER knows this is sometimes a major problem. It should be approached with patience and ingenuity for it must be solved if the child is to grow up strong and healthy.

TWO SIMPLE RULES should always be observed. First, there should be no discussion among the parents and older children as to table, or in the presence of the child, of personal likes or dislikes in the matter of food. Second, as the child becomes interested in his food he should be told why each item is good for him.

FOR THE REST—introduce each new food in very small amounts until the child has developed a taste for it. A little difference in the cooking, a few grains of salt, mixing a new food with an accustomed one (as chopped spinach with mashed potato) may make all the difference in the child's reaction.

SOME CHILDREN like hot foods, some cold and a little juggling will sometimes save the mother a lot of worry and the child unnecessary correction.

Pet Or Pest?

The House Spider Is Said To Kill Flies And Moths

Now that spring house-cleaning has been completed, housewives will be particularly conscious of new cobwebs in houses are made by two species of spiders, according to T. B. Kurata, the spider expert of the Royal Ontario Museum. Although both kinds make an irregular, tangled, silken web in corners and crevices of buildings, one species is usually much more plentiful indoors and can well claim to be the Domestic Spider. Its body, which is slightly less than 1/4 inch long, varies in coloration from a dirty white, with a few dark spots, to almost black. It weaves its eggs in a dense silken case and hangs it from the web. This spider is quite harmless. In fact, Mr. Kurata would like to convince housewives that it is somewhat beneficial because it preys on insects such as the domestic fly and the clothes moth. He keeps one domestic spider in his own kitchen for observation. Most persons, however, will consider the dust-gathering webs a nuisance. According to your point of view, then, the domestic spider is either a pet or pest.

Take Time To Play

People in Britain Do Not Neglect Opportunities For Relaxation

The Haron Expatriate, Seaforth, says: "Possibly no people in any country in the world have had their mode of living more greatly changed by the war than have the people of Britain."

In no other Allied country, at least, has the war taken as complete control over a man's time and his energies, and in no place in the world has that time and energy been more cheerfully surrendered to the country's need.

But the people of that country have not forgotten how to play and when the opportunity offers no people put their whole heart into it as the Britons do.

That fact was evidenced on Saturday, when 105,000 people attended the annual England-Scotland football game in Glasgow.

Rheumatic heart disease is said to occur more frequently among fair-haired people than among dark-haired people.

Started Busy Trade
R.A.F. Man Taught Culro Chef How To Make Pancakes

Some months ago, says the Sheffield Telegraph, a Sheffield man walked into a Culin cafe and said, "I would like some pancakes, please."

The proprietor was puzzled. "What are pancakes? How are they made? Can you tell me?" he asked.

"Yes," replied the Sheffielder. "I'll show you how to make them if you will let me."

And so a busy trade in pancakes for the British troops was started.

The Sheffielder, we are told, was Corporal George Simpson, R.A.F.

Used To Wide Vision Shows Rapid Growth

One Reason Why Prairie Boys Feel Affinity With Sea

Boys born in the prairie land undoubtedly may feel an affinity with the sea. They are accustomed to the wide vision. The winds that sweep across the vast prairies are in their blood and these winds, after all, are much like those that sweep across the mighty main. The sailors who hail from the prairies are more likely to feel at home on the waste of waters than lads who come from the cloistered valleys of Eastern Ontario, where hills and woodlands draw the horizons close. There is a fact of nature that links together the prairies and the sea and that makes of many a young plainsman a potential mariner.

EXPERTS ARE SPECULATING ON SUMMER CAMPAIGN AND THE ALLIED INVASION OF EUROPE

Stockholm.—From all sides come signs that early summer may see the United Nations start on a four-way offensive to crack the walls of "Fortress Europe" while Germany endeavors to smash Russia.

Indications point to the most extensive warfare in history in the coming months on the circular front extending from Russia around the North Cape shores in Norway, through the lowland countries, along the French coast to Bayonne on the Bay of Biscay and in the Mediterranean against Italy and the Balkans. From a mass of speculation, propaganda and facts, this is how the summer campaign appears to be shaping up:

The Nazis are ready to try for the third summer to defeat Russia, hoping their Atlantic submarine warfare will prevent any large-scale Allied offensive against the western defenses.

The decision to make Netherlands soldiers prisoners of war again is one of the many evidences of the fear that the Allies might have the concert trilled enough power and supplies in Great Britain to make an invasion.

Gen. Nikolaus von Falkenhorst's recent inspection of Norway's defenses came simultaneously with reports from Germany that the Allies were massing forces in Iceland to invade Finland in the vicinity of Petsamo, and thus get at Norway through the back door.

Such a move might be made in an effort to reduce the menace of submarine and plane attacks on Allied Russia-bound convoys.

The Nazis have been seeking more Finnish help, not only on the Leningrad front but also in preparation for any invasion from the north. High Finnish officers, however, are reported to have said privately that few Finnish soldiers would obey if ordered to oppose an Allied invasion.

CONSERVING MEAT

Approximately 20,000,000 Pounds Saved In Year By Meatless Tuesdays

Ottawa.—A prices board spokesman said that Canada's first "meatless Tuesday" conserved sufficient meat to stock a large British battleship for five months at sea.

The spokesman estimated that on one "meatless day" diners in public eating places contributed more than 350,000 pounds of meat to vital purposes. "Meatless Tuesdays" throughout the year, he said, will save approximately 20,000,000 pounds of meat.

CANADIANS HELD

Many Are Interned In Japan And Japanese Occupied Countries

Ottawa.—There are 1,000 Canadians in Japan and Japanese-occupied countries, external affairs sources said. Of these, 450 have been interned and more are being interned steadily. Whether Canadians will be included in the proposed exchange of 1,000 internees, suggested by the Japanese government to the British government, through Switzerland, cannot be predicted. The Canadian government is in touch with London to see what can be done.

SELECTIVE SERVICE DIRECTOR SAYS TRANSFER AFFECTS SMALL PERCENTAGE OF POPULATION

Ottawa.—Selective Service Director Arthur MacNamara told The Canadian Press, "Your guess is as good as mine," when asked if he had any idea of the number of men who will be affected by the order providing for the possible compulsory transfer to essential employment of workers now engaged in some 20 occupations of industries regarded as non-essential.

He said, however, that workers in the industries designated in the order represented only a "small percentage" of the population.

"There are 350,000 men in Canada who had been granted postponement on medical grounds," he added. "Our purpose is to go through these 350,000, and our next move will apply to a much larger group."

The selective service department did not anticipate that there will be much trouble in replacing the workers affected by the first order with

TO OBSERVE EMPIRE YOUTH SUNDAY

May 16th, Under The Patronage Of His Majesty The King

Toronto.—Under the special patronage of His Majesty the King, Empire Youth Sunday is this year to be observed on May 16th. Originating at the time of the Coronation in 1937, it has been marked each year by increasing numbers of young people throughout the Empire, and to some degree in the United States. The observance is an integral part of the British Empire Youth movement, the purpose of which is to assist the churches in imbuing our youth with a profound loyalty to the things of the spirit just as Nazi youth have been systematically fired with loyalty to the principles of Evil. Two ideologies, the one represented by the Cross and the other by the Swastika, face each other in a fight to the finish.

The character of Youth Sunday observances will necessarily vary in different localities and denominations. In some places processions and mass meetings are held. Schools and Sunday Schools naturally fall into the picture. Specially suitable hymns and scripture readings are used and sermons for the young are preached. The "I believe" poster, sent out by the National Council of Education to thousands of the clergy, are posted on church doors, above the pulpit or in some other prominent place.

All the leading religious bodies in Canada are co-operating, as in former years, in making Youth Sunday a milestone in the advance of Christian civilization. The Anglican, Baptist, Presbyterian, and Roman Catholic Churches, the United Church and the Salvation Army have distributed to individual clergy all across Canada about twelve thousand leaflets, posters and brochures provided through the National Council of Education and featuring the victory of the Cross over the Swastika. The literature and the posters have all been donated by individuals and companies interested in the Youth of Canada. The headquarters offices of the churches have carried out the work of distribution at their own expense.

In the revised programme for Youth Sunday, May 16th, the service at St. Paul's Cathedral, London, England, is to commence the Trans-Atlantic broadcast, the Dean of St. Paul's being the speaker. The second part of the broadcast will relay the service at the Metropolitan Church, Toronto, the Very Rev. Peter Bryce, former moderator of the United Church officiating. This reciprocal broadcast across the Atlantic is available through the kindly co-operation of the British Broadcasting Commission and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. It will be heard over the C.B.C. national network at 4 o'clock to 4:40 p.m. E.D.T. Major Ney will be the guest speaker at the great rally of youth in Manchester, England.—The Church Committee of the National Council of Education.

Ottawa.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons that the proposed visit of Mme. Chiang Kai-Shek to Canada is still uncertain.

In London

General George P. Vanier, arrived recently in London to take over his post as Canadian minister in London to Allied governments and Canadian representative on the French national committee.

ARRIVE IN BRITAIN

R.C.A.F. Draft Of Reinforcements Represents Most Of Canada

London.—Arrival in Britain of a draft of reinforcements for the R.C.A.F. overseas has been disclosed.

The airmen, representing nearly every corner of Canada, included pilots, observers, navigators, bomb-aimers, gunners, wireless-air gunners and radio mechanics.

As the air crews piled out of their ships they were unanimous in naming Berlin as the place they would like to attack first when they are posted to operational duties.

One newspaperman among the party was P.O. Bill Dumsday, Toronto, formerly of Moose Jaw and Regina, press relations officer and former Canadian Press staff man. Former sportsman included P.O. Don Wilkins, member of the Moose Jaw Canucks, Saskatchewan junior hockey champions.

RE-ESTABLISHMENT COMMITTEE TOLD WHAT IS REQUIRED FOR A CONTENTED FARM POPULATION

Ottawa.—The requirements of a prosperous, contented farm population, enlarged in number and enjoying amenities now the privilege of urban residents, were described by D. G. McKenzie, chairman of the board of grain commissioners and head of the sub-committee on agricultural reconstruction.

He spoke to the House of Commons reconstruction and re-establishment committee. Provincial premiers will be among others who will appear before the committee.

Mr. McKenzie said the "self-respecting and competent farmer should not have to go before a debt adjustment board; nor should it be expected, from a long-distance point of view, that he would have to accept bonuses or handouts from governments for any purpose whatsoever."

There should be an endeavor in the post-war period, to maintain a parity of price between what the farmer gets for what he sells and what he pays for what he buys. As to the past, Mr. McKenzie's brief questioned whether the western farmer would not be in a better position today if his operating powers had been more restricted.

"In that case his home, however humble, would be his own rather than belonging to his creditors."

Urging a survey of the debt situation among farmers, Mr. McKenzie said action to reduce the total farm debt burden to bring it in line with an amount consistent with the productivity of the land represented a difficult but important problem.

Provisions for a mortgage loan bank are being examined by the sub-committee since it appears existing legislation in this regard requires expansion, he said.

In the provision of working capital or short-term loans, the development of co-operative credit unions in several provinces gave "indication of a sound approach to this problem." As a matter of policy, consideration should be given this form of providing monies needed as working capital by farmers.

In the development of markets, there should be study of means of extending the present livestock quota shipments to the United States; negotiation of an agreement with the United Kingdom for continuation of a substantial proportion of Britain's bacon requirements; and negotiation of an agreement with Russia or other continental countries for the sale, for a period of 10 years after the peace, of the livestock necessary for the re-establishment of herds.

Scientific research indicated new outlets for farm products. Some 400,000,000 bushels of cereal grains might be used in the United States in 1944 in the production of industrial alcohol. Synthetic rubber, in which such alcohol was used, now was one of Canada's greatest needs.

In planning for post-war agricultural reconstruction, the first step should be a complete classification of all agricultural land in every province, based on soil surveys, Mr. McKenzie said. Then "intelligent plans and production programs" may proceed. Coincident with these studies, plans should be developed for the use of all precipitation and water supplies.

Assistance to farmers' sons desiring to take up land should be considered.

ALLIED NATIONS WILL HAVE TO CLEAR OUT STEPPING STONE ISLANDS IN MEDITERRANEAN

London.—Attention is focusing increasingly on the Mediterranean sea, stepping stone islands, some of which the Allies are expected to clear out before launching their anticipated assault on the soft underbelly of the Axis.

The chief stepping stones include Sicily, which bristles with Axis air bases and is regarded as the main concentration point for Axis air power in the central Mediterranean. A mere glance at the map makes it appear almost inevitable that the Allies will attack Sicily before invading the toe of the Italian boot.

Another stepping stone is Pantelleria, midway between Cape Bon and Sicily and the main protection point in Axis efforts to control traffic through the narrow Sicily strait. However, Pantelleria never has been regarded as important to the Axis as, for instance, Malta has been to the Allies.

Another and even smaller island is Lampedusa, which lies about 75 miles to the east and the half way point between Scuse and Sfax on the Tunisian coast. However, there is no apparent necessity to clear out Lampedusa before attacking Sicily as it never has bulked large in tactical operations in that region.

Sardinia is another major island objective and the concentrated Allied bombardment of Cagliari shows its importance as a reinforcement station for the Axis. However, it would be wholly possible for the Allies to side-step Sardinia during the initial phase of the coming attack and concentrate instead on Pantelleria and Sicily.

Further east lies the whole complex of island groups which presumably must be cleared out before the Allies invade Greece, Yugoslavia or Bulgaria.

The closest Axis targets for the Allies are Crete and the Dodecanese group. Crete is the main stepping stone in the Axis air ferry system for bringing planes south through the Balkans and then west through the Mediterranean to the central Mediterranean theatre. It also is a formidable obstacle athwart any invasion route to Greece and Yugoslavia.

Twelve Dodecanese islands in all hug the Turkish coast, some only a stone's throw from Turkish territory. The islands are mountainous and the problem of attack is similar to that which the Nazis faced at Crete.

MUST BE ALGIERS

De Gaulle Insists On City As Meeting Place With Giroud

London.—Gen. Charles de Gaulle voiced again his willingness to hold an immediate conference with Gen. Henri Giroud in North Africa, but insisted that he is insisting on Algiers as the meeting place.

In an address welcoming 200 Frenchmen who escaped from the continent to London in the past month, the Fighting French leader said "the French national committee has many times made known it is at Algiers, the capital of the empire, that broad agreements ought to be made and consultations held which are necessary for the establishment of joint central authority."

This dramatic pose of pounding fingers at the telegraph instrument is symbolic of the messages which will be sent by hundreds of telegraph operators over Canadian wires during the Fourth Victory Loan campaign. Ninety two thousand Canadian National Railways employees across the Dominion have already received a similar message from their Chairman and President, R. C. Vaughan, appealing to them to "Back the attack and support the Fourth Victory Loan."

Help Nation's Food Supply by Growing Your Own.

The launching of a national campaign to promote the growing of vegetables by non-commercial individuals and groups is announced by the Health League of Canada. It is the intention of the League to awaken Canadian citizens from coast to coast to the need for increased vegetable growing in 1943.

It is pointed out that there will, in all probability, be a scarcity of commercially grown vegetables in Canada this year. The reasons for this are:

1. The export of large quantities of processed vegetables to our overseas forces and to the people of the United Kingdom.

2. A decline in commercial growing due to labor shortage and transportation problems.

One answer to the problem, says the Health League, is the home vegetable garden. That part of the population living in rural sections will probably continue to grow their own vegetables. City dwellers, however, are urged to put their backyards to good use by planting vegetables this year. By so doing they will relieve any possible shortage as well as gain a fascinating hobby.

Recommends VICTORY BONDS

Dr. Wheeler says:

"If Canadians were asked to give money to help to win the war we would not be asked to make a big sacrifice. Some are giving their lives. We are asked to lend money. I am sure that farmers throughout Canada will be glad to lend money to their country, for like all other Canadians, they know we must do all we can to help.

"There is a practical reason for buying Victory Bonds, too. The money we lend to Canada now, to help to win the war, will be ours to use as we please after the war has been won. Ready cash will be handy to have when we will want to replace farm equipment that is wearing out now. A farmer can always find a use for savings, and there is no better way to save than by investing all we can in Victory Bonds."

Canada has been issuing Bonds for 72 years, and has never failed to pay every dollar of principal and interest. A Victory Bond is an asset more readily converted into cash than any other security.

REG'LAR FELLERS—A New Idea

WESTERN GIRLS

Many Are Engaged In Important War Work In The East

There are a lot of Western Canadian girls in Eastern Canadian war plants and more arriving all the time.

We were in St. Catharines, Ont., recently at the very busy McKinnon Industries, and while there were struck with the fine women from the West who were energetically helping the war effort. There were hundreds and this condition is repeated at many Eastern war plants.

They come from Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta mostly and the majority have never worked away from home before.

Their chief problem was that of adjustment to their startlingly new surroundings in a very busy war plant and away-from-home living quarters and being on their own financially. They have shown themselves entirely capable of making their own way in the world of industry and have settled into the Garden City community with easy adaptability. All have found new friends and many have married boys they met since coming East.

These young Westerners are a fine group of healthy, wholesome girls. The ailment most prevalent (especially around the Christmas season) is homesickness. Anticipating this feeling their company arranged special dinner parties and dances to help dispel their longing for the familiar faces and scenes of home. All are looking forward to the joys of springtime in the Niagara Peninsula with its blossom-laden fruit trees and luxuriant vegetation.

A great number of the Western girls are performing operations which require both intelligence and manual dexterity in the manufacture of radio devices and detonators which flow off McKinnon assembly lines to supply the fighting fronts.

Thinking you might be interested in seeing some of them at work we secured these photos—do you know the girls?—(Editor).

GARDEN NOTES

War Gardens

There has been a good deal of publicity in the newspapers and over the radio this year about special war gardens. Quite a lot of this publicity originates in the United States, and while the information is highly suitable for our neighbors it may not be adapted to our more rigorous Canadian conditions. One should be careful in using varieties mentioned. Many of these are not obtainable in Canadian seed stores for the simple reason that they have not been tested and approved by Canadian authorities.

Garden Enemies

Weeds, insects and disease are the natural enemies of the garden. If countered quickly by continuous cultivation, some quick-acting commercial fertilizer and various sprays and dusts, there will be little trouble. The main thing is to start the counter attack before the enemies get their offensive underway.

It is a simple matter, for instance, to dust potatoes, and if done just as soon as the second set of leaves develop and followed again at intervals of two weeks during the early period of growth, there will be no trouble. The same is true with mildew on roses and other plants with attacks of aphids, wilt and the various insects that prey on so many of our cultivated plants.

Thorough and early cultivation will soon check weeds and will encourage growth of the things we are trying to grow. If at the time of these first cultivations a little garden fertilizer is added carefully, close to, but not actually touching, the plants, favorable growth will be further encouraged.

Still Time To Plant

In any well-ordered garden there will be a piece of the vegetable garden left until at least the second week in June or even right up to July. Here should be planted those vegetables which are wanted for use in the early fall when in too many gardens practically everything is past its best, except stock lines like potatoes and those late maturing vegetables that are not ready before late August, anyway. It is still not a bit too late to plant beans, carrots, beets, and in fact about half the vegetables that can be grown in Canada. In most parts of the country it will not be too late to continue such plantings we do run into a drought, some of this will come along and be appreciated and the cost of the seeds amounts to only a few cents.

Pattern For Disaster

BY J. B. RYAN

CHAPTER II

"YOU will be careful, Señor Morgan?" suggested the manager. "Colonel Velasquez was quite angry when you collided with him in the doorway. If you will tell me why you left the hotel in such a hurry, perhaps I could smooth out this little misunderstanding."

Morgan eyed the man sharply. Was this a natural desire to be helpful, or was De Nova fishing for information. After all, if Pfahls was a submarine commander, he had come to the Casa Grande to contact the spy ring Washington was certain existed in the German. Had De Nova whispered a message to Pfahls while the German had been paying his bill?

"Gracias," said Morgan. "I prefer to talk to Colonel Velasquez myself." He left the lobby to enter the dining room, and regretfully he wished now that he had noted just which waiter had served the German, or just which patrons of the Casa Grande he might have spoken to.

The dining room was practically deserted, for it was late in the period of the siesta hour. The waiters were all off duty; only De Nova being present to care for such infrequent custom that might turn up at this time of day.

Only one table was occupied; that by a tall individual whom Morgan knew to be one Don Felix Guillermo, a retired music teacher. Don Felix was eccentric and morose, and not above suspicion. But Morgan was certain that Guillermo had not been in the dining room when Commander Pfahls had been there. If Pfahls had secured any information, it had not come from the musician.

A MAN stepped into the dining room and his face lighted up at sight of the American. "Ah, Señor Morgan!" he exclaimed. "You and I shall have the drink, no?"

Morgan could not refuse. Señor Raymundo Verde was the newest guest of the Casa Grande, and already Morgan, in line with his policy of ingratiating himself with every arrival, had purchased quite a number of highballs for Verde.

De Nova, the hotel manager, brought the whiskey-and-odors and placed them on the table before Morgan and Verde.

"Why did you not tell me you are the writer of books, Señor?" Verde inquired as the two men sipped their drinks.

So Verde had been inquiring about Chris Morgan. The American studied his reticent companion. Had he been wrong in voting the babbling little fellow a clean state? Should he have investigated Verde as thoroughly as he had everyone in the Casa Grande?

It was then that Morgan found himself staring at the half-emptied glass from which he had been drinking. What had caught his attention was a small thing—merely the fact that the surface of the glass was dull and lustrous.

A small thing, yes, and one that would have gone unnoticed had not the outstanding characteristics of the Casa Grande been its spick-and-span cleanliness. The blurred glassware was quite a contrast to the sparkling brilliancy to which Morgan had become accustomed.

Of course, one unwashed glass could be an understandable accident. Señor Verde's glass, however, was clean and faintly opaque. Somehow, that coincidence disturbed Chris Morgan, and his glance moved restlessly over the dining room.

"You are not drinking, señor?" murmured Verde, as De Nova, arriving at the table after another round of drinks, looked hesitantly at the partly filled glass about which the American's fingers were still clasped.

Mrs. Gerald Johnston thought the day would never end—no ambition, no energy, just a life of dreary routine. But she quickly made her feel healthy and happy again. Perhaps an inactive life has got YOU down too! Buck it up with Fruit-ties, Canada's Largest Selling Liver Tablets.

His tone and manner were casual, but inwardly Morgan was as alert as a man who senses sudden danger. Something was wrong. Don Felix, instead of being in the dining room at this hour, should be in his suite on the fourth floor playing the violin as was his habit. Did Guillermo know that Morgan had searched his rooms that very morning while the misanthropic musician was out?

The American twisted the glass between his fingers. He could feel the faint greasy film responsible for the clouded appearance of the vessel. The coating of oil was unmistakable. As the glass revolved, he could see his own fingerprints outlined clearly on the curved surface.

"Fingerprints?"—was that it? Morgan straightened a trifle in his chair. Was the whole setup engineered for the sole purpose of obtaining his fingerprints? His glass and Verde's one Morgan touched his fingers would leave a mark—

"Before you leave Argentina, amigo," the garrulous Verde was babbling away, "you must visit me at my estancia."

Morgan hardly heard the plump little man. Who was after his fingerprints? Verde himself? De Nova? Guillermo or even Chris Verde? The two whose quarters Morgan had explored a few hours earlier? Was this the aftermath of his encounter with Cmdr. Pfahls? Or had some of the other guests finally become suspicious of the idle American, doubtful of his status of a novelist in search of local color?

There was no way in which a copy of his fingerprints could expose him. Washington would not admit that he was Lt. Morgan, U.S.N.

MORGAN had been painstakingly examining in his surreptitious examination of the effects of Col. Velasquez and Guillermo the musician. Yet he must have left a fingerprint somewhere in one of the rooms, a fingerprint that had informed the occupant that a stranger had been prowling through his things.

Granting that Pfahls had not sent word back to the hotel that he had been spotted, whoever was after Morgan's fingerprints was not sure, of course, that Morgan was the man prying into their affairs. However, they would soon know. His fingerprints were on the glass, and as soon as Morgan left the dining room, De Nova would carry the glass to whoever was expecting it.

He removed his hands from about the glass and simulated a yawn. "This Fourth of July weather you have for Christmas makes me look forward to my afternoon nap," he grumbled apologetically and pushed back his chair. "You will excuse me, Señor Verde?"

"Si," the other nodded, rising also. "I, too, shall appreciate a siesta—!" He broke off, for Morgan was drawing a purse from his pocket. "No, señor!" Verde expostulated hurriedly, "Last night it was you who paid for everything, and now it is my turn!"

Morgan dropped the purse as though it had been knocked out of his hand by the joggling of his elbow. The purse struck his foot and slid under the table. Instantly, Verde was down on his knees, groping for the property of his companion.

Chris Morgan had only to move his arm to reach the glass he had left on the table. A tilt of the hand poured the content of the one glass into the other from which Verde himself had drunk. Then Morgan placed in plain glass so that it was the one closest to Verde's chair.

The move was swift and simple; Morgan was composed and smiling when Verde, apologizing for his awkwardness, scrambled to his feet with the fallen wallet. Verde, of course, with his head below the level of the table, had been unable to see the transference of the liquid from glass to glass, and his muttered exclamations while all four had drowned

MRS. GERALD JOHNSTON thought the day would never end—no ambition, no energy, just a life of dreary routine. But she quickly made her feel healthy and happy again. Perhaps an inactive life has got YOU down too! Buck it up with Fruit-ties, Canada's Largest Selling Liver Tablets.

"Seems I Can't SAVE Anything..."

WE MET on Main Street. Jim had his usual ready smile, even when he got telling me how hard up he was.

"Seems funny," he said, "I'm earning more these days, but I just can't seem to keep it."

"Taxes, Victory Bonds and all those other things coming off my pay."

He paused, then went on slowly.

"At least it seems as though I can't save anything. Actually, of course, those war bonds are my savings. I'm glad I've salted away a few of them. And you can count me in on the Fourth Victory Loan too!"

THE STORY BEHIND MEAT RATIONING

Food is a weapon of war, and we must share our supplies with those who are fighting to keep the war from our shores. After all special wartime demands are taken care of, only one half of the meat produced in Canada will be available for ordinary domestic consumption at home.

Meat supplies for our Armed Forces must be maintained at all costs.

Canned meat is required in large quantities by the Red Cross to send to our boys who are prisoners of war.

Great Britain has to depend more and more on Canada for supplies to maintain even its present low ration rate of 28 cents worth of meat per person, per week.

Since the war started the consumption of meat by civilians has increased in Canada. Great defense projects such as the Alcan Highway and the Shipshaw Power Development have created new and large demands for meat in areas where practically no demand existed before.

Places like Newfoundland and the West Indies, which previously secured their meat from other sources—must now depend to a great extent on Canada.

The many extra ships of the United Nations now calling at Canadian ports, must be furnished with meat.

RATIONING IS INTELLIGENT FORESIGHT INTELLIGENT PLANNING

Coupon rationing is the only way of ensuring equal sharing of the meat available for civilian consumption in Canada. Those with lots of money will not get more than their share—and those with less money will be assured of getting their fair share.

Rationing will help prevent local meat shortages such as occurred last year from becoming widespread and continuous throughout the whole Dominion. The incentive for panic-buying which empties butcher shops early in the day, will be eliminated.

THE MEAT RATION WILL BE AMPLE FOR HEALTH AND NUTRITION

Fortunately, our meat production in Canada has increased. So, although only half our production will be available for civilian use, it will mean a reduction of only about 15% to 20% in the average household consumption.

The proposed ration of 2 lbs. (carcase weight) per person, per week, has been approved by the country's leading food and nutrition authorities, as ample for the health and nutrition standards of everyone—regardless of age or occupation.

DATES AND OTHER DETAILS REGARDING MEAT RATIONING—SOON TO BECOME EFFECTIVE IN CANADA—WILL BE ANNOUNCED LATER
